The ISO 9001 Draft has been released!

Are you anxious to know what the changes are? Relax, the waiting and speculation are over.

Although you may read comments stating "transformative changes" or "reshaping how organizations approach quality", I can say at first glance, the 10-clause structure remains the same, with some leadership and organizational context enhancements added as expected.

So far, the climate change requirements (remember February 2024? If not, click here to read them from our FREE STUFF) are included.

I did read the words "quality culture and ethics" in this standard. I am pleased to see this broader expansion, although the impact of this is yet to be determined.

One significant change that I see in this version is the expanded Annex A, offering further details and clarification to what I call "spirit and intent" of the standard.

As with any draft standard, this content can change when the final version is published, expected in September 2026. If you want to learn more about the transition, check out this link, which explains the upgrade

What are you most excited about in the new standard? Drop me a note here, and you can be featured in our next newsletter.

I'm Speaking! December 4, 2025

I am excited to announce that I will be speaking at the American Society for Quality's Women in Quality Forum in December:

Seven Secrets to Rocking the Audit Stage with R-E-S-P-E-C-T

Discover your audit superpowers, pack your audit toolkit, and rock your next audit!

When Cyndi Lauper shouted, "Girls Just Want to Have Fun!" I am not sure she meant having fun while conducting audits, but that's the song I hear in my head each time I start an Opening Meeting. I realised recently I have been auditing across four decades, auditing was different back then, cue Pat Benatar's, "We Belong", and I've learned a few secrets along the way.

ASQ Maritimes Section 0411 Update

If anyone wonders why I moved back to Nova Scotia, this photo is unfiltered. Maritimes 0411 hosted our summer social last month. What a great night with quality-minded people and some pretty great fish and chips! Beautiful sunsets, good food, and good friends, these are the reasons why I call "Canada's oceans playground" my home.

Building your audit characteristics _ An interactive teambuilding session

It takes more than a roll of the dice to build a character that can be a successful auditor, and it takes more than a game board to build an audit team that can tackle any audit challenge. esigned for the young auditors and the seasoned young-at-heart auditors, participants in this interactive workshop will network with each other, conduct a self-assessment of their audit behaviors, get to share their own audit strengths, learn from each other and understand how to build effective audit teams to meet any challenge that may be thrown at them.
